Since its debut issue in April 1980, In the Public Interest has progressed in several ways. We are encouraged by the growing support here at the State University of New York at Buffalo Law School. More students submitted articles for this issue and the law school allowed us the use of its equipment. We are also quite pleased that we have gotten several articles from sources outside the law school, most notably Erwin Knoll. Possibly the most important gain has been the tripling of our editorial board since our first issue last spring. For it is only through the infusion of new people and ideas that this publication will continue to grow and flourish.

Also worth noting is the fact that we have increased our circulation by 50% and are now compiling a mailing list of law school libraries and public interest orientated groups and individuals.

In mailing In the Public Interest across the country, we hope more people from diverse backgrounds and fields will take the opportunity to submit articles and analysis which are not only within the spirit of this publication, but which take issue with the assumptions and assertions that will be presented on these pages.

Please submit manuscripts and/or articles to:
Center For Public Interest Law, John Lord O'Brian Hall, Faculty of Law and Jurisprudence, State University of New York at Buffalo, Amherst Campus, Buffalo, New York, 14260. Deadline for next issue: March 1, 1981.

Managing Editor: David R. Milliken

Editorial Board: Robert Elardo, Howard Berger, Eric Cahalan, Martin Miller, Keith Braun, Cheryl Possenti, David Sherman, Larry Engle, Lewis Rose, John Ziegler, Frank Butterini, Craig Fritzsch

Graphics: Martin Miller

IN THE PUBLIC INTEREST is a publication of the Center for Public Interest Law.

---

Contributors

Erwin Knoll is the editor of The Progressive magazine and a defendant in United States v. The Progressive.

Walter Simpson is a former coordinator of the Western New York Peace Center and teaches Ethics of Survival at SUNY/Buffalo.

David Sherman is an Economics student at SUNY/Buffalo.

Howard Berger, Matthew Robinson, Lawrence Engle and Martin Miller are students at SUNY/Buffalo School of Law.