Around the Chapters

Alumni chapter receptions were held this past year in Rochester, Albany, New York City, Washington, D.C., Chicago and Los Angeles. Alumni/ae had a chance to visit with each other and hear up-to-the-minute news of their alma mater. Dean Barry Boyer, Associate Dean Thomas Headrick, Associate Dean Alan Carrel and Alumni Director Ilene Fleischmann helped spread Law School spirit throughout the country.

Washingtonians gathered together for a late summer luncheon at the National Press Club, where they were hosted by Douglas Turner, Washington Bureau Chief for The Buffalo News., Alan Carrel spoke on the urgent need for alumni/ae to become involved in legislative action.

Not surprisingly, the Buffalo Bills were the focus of two fall events — one in Chicago, the other in Albany. Both alumni/ae parties were held in sports bars equipped with large screen TVs, where fans could root for their favorite team while schmoozing with friends and munching on chicken wings.

In the spring, active Albany-area alums attended a luncheon at the Steuben Athletic Club, where they heard Dean Boyer present plans for a new curriculum.

Downstate New Yorkers got together twice. In the fall, the Greater New York Chapter of the Law Alumni Association joined the Metropolitan Chapter of the UB Alumni Association for a reception at The Yale Club. UB President William R. Greiner — who taught and held several administrative positions in the Law School from 1967 to 1980 — presented an update on the University before a crowd of more than 300 alumni/ae.

In Los Angeles: Kevin M. Trippi '84, Dean Thomas Headrick and Richard M. English '53.

In Niagara Falls: Ernie Curto '30 and Ralph Boniello '37.

In New York City: Mr. and Mrs. Anthony J. Renaldo '50.

The second New York event was the traditional January luncheon during the week of the New York State Bar Meeting, also held at the Yale Club. Dean Boyer spoke on proposed changes to the curriculum. He then led a lively question and answer period on the effects budget cutbacks would have on the Law School.

Most recently, Rochesterians were invited to the home of Jason M. Karp '70, where they networked and viewed his unique and extensive collection of Art Deco furnishings. Rochester alums are planning a spring dinner. ■
